#	RESPONSES	DATE
1	Brilliant, energetic performance.	7/13/2017 10:33 PM
2	Liked the variety of music on offer - we came to see the Hubbards but other bands would have given it a different feel again. And we enjoyed watching the BSL (although not deaf).	6/22/2017 8:33 PM
3	Really enjoyed it. Frew's music was brilliant, so well done. Really enjoyed the dance interludes. Thought the idea of including local bands was great. Would've loved to have seen a couple of shows to see how the different bands changed the dynamic of the show.	6/19/2017 11:22 AM
4	It didn't seem to have anything to say. I'm sorry but 'life is shit, it's not fair, anyway just get on with it' - that's not a message with much substance to it. Came across to me a bit boo hoo let me whine about my first world problems. But apart from the fundamental basis of the piece I thought it was well done haha.	6/18/2017 8:33 AM
5	Thank you for all your hard work and effort	6/17/2017 11:13 PM
6	I feel that my scores may seem a little negative but that's because I already love Hull, I already know what Hull can showcase and I trust in awesome companies like middle child spreading the gospel of Hull and doing it very very well!!!	6/17/2017 11:02 PM
7	This was absolutley brilliant, Middle Child are the jewel in Hull's crown. Everything I've seen them do over the years has been innovative and well executed. I think this will be a huge hit in Edinburgh, and good luck to them.	6/17/2017 10:07 PM
8	Absolutely amazing! Loved it!	6/17/2017 9:47 PM
9	Being amongst the actors made you feel like you was a part of the performance. Excellent storyline that is relevant nationwide and worldwide not just inclusive to Hull.	6/17/2017 1:05 PM
10	Couldn't hear every thing especially the introduction bit to each decade	6/16/2017 1:37 PM
11	So exciting to see a completely new form of theatre literally emerging to an audience for the first time. In a few years time this may be a style/genre of theatre that people engage with nationwide with MiddleChild at the helm; but right here in Hull, in [W]jelly, this June 2017 audiences don't know what to do with themselves - they're wandering in the dark, immersed and hounded by culture-changing thoughts, tempted to rave. It's brilliant.	6/15/2017 12:15 PM
12	I have been to the middle child panto's for the past 6 years - it was strange to see Mark (the narrator) without boobs!!!	6/15/2017 9:19 AM
13	The quality and consistency of all performers was fantastic. No weak links. Weaved a thought provoking local story with good back drop of international events. Almost like a fable at the end. Made me blub! ????	6/14/2017 9:12 PM
14	Like an Eton (or Endeavor) mess pudding, indulgent and rich and left you feeling full and a bit sick..... It was nihilistic and depressing and stereotyped and simplistic and young and passionate and full of hormones . Made me feel deep down sad. Sad about choices made for the right reasons ... none of these have probably been parents yet?.. also felt it fell between two stools in the text. Wanted it to rhyme more dynamically, if it was going to rhyme. it was very self conscious and bared its soul. Some overwriting and indulgent sections.(Two guys out in fancy dress...) Writing/text cut and stripped back /collaged concept was very difficult to convey living breathing characters, but the performances were strong. ...wanted to see Astroid more.. couldn't hear her lyrics ... loved the music here. Why a she?.. was feeling generally moody and left feeling even more emotional .. political theatre for a sticky shitty era. for many young people. Brave concept needs outside eye to tighten it up perhaps .	6/13/2017 11:51 PM
15	I found the sound level to be too loud to be enjoyable for the type of event it was, several others seemed to agree judging by comments I heard(I go to gigs often so don't mind a bit if noise!).	6/13/2017 11:40 PM
16	Too long us for me. Couldn't tell how much the dialogue mattered but the volume and poor sound quality made it hard to catch what was being said.	6/13/2017 9:43 PM
17	The sound levels or the effects on the Asteroid's voice were set wrong and none of the words were legible.	6/11/2017 10:34 PM
18	Liked the interaction and moving stages on scaffolding	6/10/2017 10:11 AM

19	I think the idea of bands playing (touring?) with theatre is excellent. A bit of everything you could ever want in one night. Like beer and football, caffeine and conversation and Tory Party and U-turns they come together naturally and should be expected. I also think that the Middle Child 'musical' for want of a better description has moved onwards and forwards from 'Weekend Rockstars' and the presentation as Gallery Stages (again for want of a better description) was brilliantly thought out and executed. Thanks .	6/9/2017 10:41 AM
20	Really enjoyed the whole performance but found it difficult to hear the asteroids lyrics (mic needed turning up?)	6/9/2017 6:51 AM
21	Brilliant evening, far exceeded my expectations	6/8/2017 12:20 PM
22	I think it was a really well put together production and I loved the character of the narrator and a lot of the songs. I didn't really feel that connected to the characters though, I felt the most towards the bouncer dad but the other characters were all quite terrible people in a way. It also zoomed through a lot of information as the piece went on so as the information sped up I missed bits out like who the son got married to etc. I also think the asteroid bit needs work, it was a little bit jarring with the rest of the characters and the script. The end message didn't really teach me about anything - if we all speak to each other then the world will be a better place? I don't think we can really solve those issues, but a bit more reconciliation or communication between parents and children would maybe be slightly more realistic ending rather than an asteroid/we can all save the world moment. Really liked putting the band on between the shows but think this whole show would work better on a Friday or Saturday night as quite long for a week day performance.	6/8/2017 8:44 AM
23	Well written, emotive, innovative and hugely interesting. Really enjoyed the show and would love to see it again. A great fusion of music, acting and poetry with stories that people can connect to!	6/8/2017 8:35 AM
24	On arriving i thought i was too old (60) for the show but by the end i thought i could have been part of the target audience!	6/8/2017 8:02 AM
