

TURNER PRIZE 2017

Turner Prize, one of the world's most renowned art prizes, is awarded by Tate to an artist who has exhibited outstanding work in the previous year. The four shortlisted artists for 2017 will exhibit their work at Ferens Art Gallery, Hull, from September with the overall winner announced in early December.

Through genres such as portraiture, landscape and still life, the four artists explore how art is able to respond to political and social upheaval.

Hurvin Anderson's paintings encompass both portraiture and landscape to distil a sense of place, with works that shift between representation and reality.

Andrea Büttner's multifaceted work, which operates across print, installation and painting, explore the language of poverty and value.

Lubaina Himid's work references the political power of graphic language, with decorative motifs often used to confront the sense of invisibility felt by the people of the African Diaspora.

Rosalind Nashashibi uses time in film to build a steady yet often repetitive picture of everyday experience, through footage that combines movement and stillness.

26 Sep 2017 – 7 Jan 2018

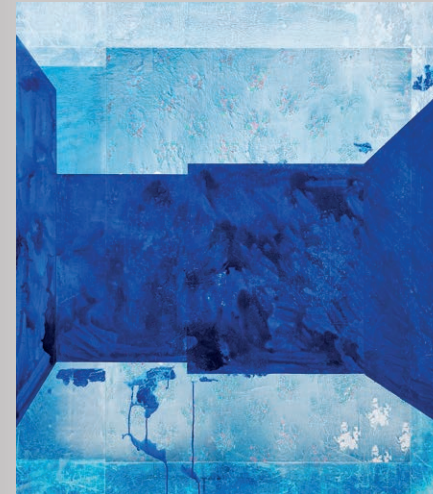

Ferens Art Gallery

hull2017.co.uk/turnerprize

Free

EXHIBITION

Image: The four shortlisted artists (L-R) Lubaina Himid, Hurvin Anderson, Andrea Büttner and Rosalind Nashashibi

Hurvin Anderson

Hurvin Anderson
Flat Top, 2008
Hurvin Anderson: Backdrop, Art Gallery of Ontario 2016
Image courtesy the artist

Lubaina Himid

Lubaina Himid
A Fashionable Marriage, 1986
Installation view of The Place is Here, Nottingham Contemporary 2017
Image courtesy the artist and Hollybush Gardens
Photography: Andy Keate

Andrea Büttner

Andrea Büttner
Detail from Beggar, 2016
Image courtesy the artist,
Hollybush Gardens, London,
David Kordansky Gallery, Los Angeles, and Galerie
Tschudi, Zuoz © Andrea Büttner / VG Bild-Kunst, Bonn 2017
Photography: Lee Thompson

Rosalind Nashashibi

Rosalind Nashashibi
Electrical Gaza, 2015
Video still from On This Island, The University Art Galleries at UC Irvine's Claire Trevor School of the Arts California 2015
Image courtesy of the artist