Really enjoyed the journey. Particularly the outward walk. My only comment would be that the inward journey was OK but being so long was a little disappointing. Perhaps some of the 1st music interspersed or the bridge in all weathers would have added to the experience. Glad we did it though. Thanks to the volunteers.

Big skies, expansive views, how small we are in the face of nature. I had a perfect weather day to see the beauty of the river and its bank in different lights as the wind blew the clouds across the sky. The choral voices and soulful trumpet held my hand and uplifted my spirits all the way across. Thank you for a wonderful journey.

Q1 Thinking about your sound journey, what went through your mind?

I particularly appreciated the opportunity to cut out regular noise in order to heighten the appreciation of what I was seeing. The soundtrack supported this ability to notice and observe things I have never seen before and to appreciate them. On my return I got the same soundtrack. All great though. Thanks.

Cosmic 3-4 dimensional space in such contrast to the linear 1 dimensional route which I would have preferred in half light or relatively dark and without the traffic fumes. The reeds, wet and glistening in the bright sunlight were a reward on the opposite bank, and made the title make sense

Loved the music, specially the jazz, trumpet and the very nordic feel of it. Good to have the sounds on the way back - very meditative. Only negative comment - seats needed at the end. We had taken a folding chair as although I can walk that distance I need a break half way through because of arthritis in my feet - I am sure I am not the only one !

Thought so life gave way to thinking about the scenery - the interaction between the sea and the land and crossing countries. Also thought about those who have sadly taken their lives on the bridge.

Absolutely loved it! Best bits for me were: * the little girl narrating at the start. What a star [star shape] ! Would have like to have heard more from her. *Soundtrack on the return walk - rain, cars swishing by but from left to right! * This should be a permanent event. KEEP IT PLEASE! Thank you xx

Fantastic, but didn't like much of the poetry - could have something more to do with the sea, wind, tides, reeds... Listened to the Humber Bridge sounds on the way back. You didn't need to include the traffic.Loved the riot. Didn't like the v. low slow brass instrument.

My audio machine did not trigger on the way back and passing people coming back towards you broke the immersion. However the feeling of pilgrimage towards the monolithic tower, shared by lost souls was systematic of what I felt the theme of 'recycle' embodied. It was haunting and beautiful when it worked.

An achingly beautiful experience. Stunning music and recordings. I really enjoyed the interplay between the experience of being in the place, and the sound/music. For example, being physically blown by the wind whilst hearing the reeds. Also the poem about death/life at the point of the small shrine was moving and sensitive.

Q1 Thinking about your sound journey, what went through your mind?

Early stage I thought of the holding wires on the bridge being like strings that could be played for music. At the other end listening to the sound of the reeds I found one set of reeds growing down at the riverside and wind was blowing across them.
