3	VERY POWERFUL PIECE OF WORK & VERY TIMELY	10/25/2017 3:36 PM
4	This was not "enjoyable"! But it was vital, necessary and massively important in reminding me and cautioning of the injustice around me. No people should live with discrimination . Hats off to the LGBT community	10/25/2017 12:52 PM
5	Reminded me of the way the world seems to be heading - intolerance and isolationism. v. sad	10/25/2017 12:51 PM

9	Really good to be able to interact with the Electric Fence - thought provoking sounds and concept! Well done to the artist.	10/25/2017 12:44 PM
10	Initially I thought it was "playful" but then had to think about what electric fences are. I ended (rather than started) with reading the panel about it.	10/25/2017 12:42 PM
11	As a volunteer today the impact of the electric fence has been incredible - people speaking of the power of art to empasion and give us the bravery to touch the fence aka help the oppressed	10/25/2017 12:41 PM
12	Brings home reality for many people	10/25/2017 12:40 PM
13	Quite a shock to realise the fence only becomes electric with the bystanders touch. Even daring to touch the wire feels like a small act of resistance. Barriers don't keep people in and keep other people out. They're a reminder to the rest of us that they have power, a bit like the public executions in the Handmaids tale	10/25/2017 12:38 PM
14	Misogyny in some cities is being recognised s a hate crime	10/25/2017 12:33 PM

17	Good to see in an unexpected setting or maybe I am being unfair in thinking that.	10/25/2017 12:29 PM
18	Created memories of the Berlin Wall. Legacy is what you take with you to the destination forward. It is too easy to be passive and just walk by . More in common than our differnces	10/25/2017 12:28 PM

23	Thought provoking	10/25/2017 12:13 PM
24	It is very unexpected in a church, so its impact is greater. When one stops to think about the motive behind it one can see a church is a perfect place for it.	10/25/2017 12:10 PM

27	It reminded me of s time when I rescued a sheep the was caught by the horns in an electric fence. I was recovering from an operation at the time and it surprised me that I had enough strength to do the recovery	10/25/2017 12:04 PM
28	So informative, very moving	10/25/2017 11:55 AM
29	A good and powerful piece it works!	10/25/2017 11:52 AM

31	Was interesting, quite powerful	10/25/2017 11:46 AM
32	I found it disturbing. The light made me think of torture and interrogation The sounds made were ones I wanted to stop. The fence itself made me think of concentration camps.	10/25/2017 11:46 AM

34	Moving, chilling, visceral	10/25/2017 11:41 AM
35	Unsettling physical experience to question LGBTQ today - brilliant installation. Volunteers very knowledgeable about the art piece and its context in society and provided info about national tours to look for.	10/25/2017 11:41 AM

43	Very thought provoking	10/25/2017 11:28 AM
44	Q8 comment - I am already positive about diversity Powerful - conjures up thoughts of persecution and oppression both symbolically and literally. Like the sounds of the trains (Auschwitz etc.)and the other discordant noises. Thank you. Also good to see this subject being explored in a church.	10/25/2017 11:26 AM
45	I heard about it and wanted to see it because hatred of any sort without communication is destructing Could you have an hour or so when a limited number of people were able to pray inside the fence.	10/25/2017 11:22 AM
46	In Hull for my granddaughter's graduation, and wishing to partake in City of Culture events,. This was a poignant experience. I was glad to see the Minster active in this big issue of our time.	10/25/2017 11:19 AM

50	A great idea and way for Hull to share its legacy of the wonderful work of William Wilberforce	10/25/2017 11:11 AM
51	Visiting the Minster, we were disturbed and irritated by the installation, which did not seem to help people understand issues about which we care deeply, having a lesbian daughter A lot of passers by seemed to enjoy "playing" with the wires	10/25/2017 11:08 AM

55	The Minster is to be applauded for installing this, where it will be seen by many who may not normally experience art works.	10/25/2017 10:57 AM
56	An original idea to prompt thoughts about discrimination, in all its guises	10/25/2017 10:55 AM
57	Made us aware of today's society and our views, outlooks	10/25/2017 10:53 AM
58	I enjoyed the "Electric Fence" because it is different, interesting and thought-provoking but I didn't enjoy thinking about injustice and inhumanity although it has to be faced, of course.	10/25/2017 10:51 AM
59	an un-nerving, thought-provoking experience (in response to Q1) Location within the minster is inspired; at the end of a "religious" tour and within that community asking questions about persecution is an introspective way of looking.	10/25/2017 10:49 AM
60	I tried to understand the voice but it was too muffled	10/25/2017 10:46 AM
61	I thought provoking installation - needs to be shared wider than Hull.	10/25/2017 10:45 AM
62	Very poignant to have this in a church!	10/25/2017 10:42 AM
63	Very much broader than just LGBT issues - what a mess we are as "one human family" - as so many become more aware and liberal and equal numbers seem to go the opposite - radicalized, bigoted, racist, etc.	10/25/2017 10:39 AM
64	Interesting - makes you think	10/25/2017 10:36 AM
65	lovely to see art installation in a communal setting and LGBT values accepted by a mainstream church community.	10/25/2017 10:34 AM
66	Thought provoking	10/25/2017 10:32 AM
67	I was staying quite a way out of Hull and did not feel brave enough to wear my rainbow top around that community before I got here, because I get enough homophobic stuff in my workplace and didn't want it on a day off. So glad this is in a church context.	10/25/2017 10:32 AM
68	Really moving	10/25/2017 10:28 AM
69	Beautifully presented, especially poignant here	10/25/2017 10:28 AM
70	Keep up your excellent work	10/25/2017 10:27 AM
71	I would have interested to know why the different sounds were chosen	10/25/2017 10:26 AM
72	Timely reminder of a visit to Auschwitz and Birkenau earlier this year.	10/25/2017 10:25 AM
73	Involving, interactive, thought-provoking	10/25/2017 10:24 AM
74	I put that I didn't enjoy the experience - but that was because it made me feel sad and angry and helpless not because it isn't good - thought-provoking art. It's fantastic.	10/25/2017 10:22 AM
75	Made me feel uneasy being in a church - but then I suppose this is a good thing.	10/25/2017 10:19 AM
76	Unusual, thought-provoking	10/25/2017 10:17 AM
77	Wonderful! Striking venue for this installation, aesthetically and symbolically.	10/25/2017 10:13 AM
78	Wonderful! Striking venue for this installation, aesthetically and symbolically.	10/25/2017 10:08 AM
79	I was very moved by the explanation. I agree. I am very concerned about these issues.	10/25/2017 10:05 AM
80	relevant to Brexit, home UK slavery	10/25/2017 10:02 AM
81	Nice to see this and funny to listen to people discussing the piece around me as a gay American. Good Job	10/25/2017 10:00 AM
82	Found it very moving and thought-provoking. "Fences" start in people's minds. Try not to "buy" all the nonsense spoken of any people who are "different" Fantastic work done by an amazing artist. Thank you Let's all try to learn from the past and its horrors and beauty.	10/25/2017 9:57 AM
83	A unique and thought-provoking exhibit. It made me feel for the current political and social climate	10/25/2017 9:53 AM
84	Brilliantly executed idea. Really made an impression, Thanks!	10/25/2017 9:47 AM
